A rare and exciting opportunity to acquire a truly stylish 5 bedroom, architecturally designed Andalucian townhouse, enjoying unrivalled views of the Sierra Libar. Situated at the top of Benaojan, one of the region's finest examples of Pueblos Blancos and nationally renowned for its sausage production, this stunning home, once a working sausage factory has been lovingly renovated by the current owners. Spanning 300m2, the house offers the best in both indoor and outdoor living. Largely open plan on two main floors, the traditionally inspired living areas merge with a contemporary twist in the shape of an original David Marshall brass sculpted staircase. The impressive wooden front door leads directly into the first living area and onto the large dining room and kitchen area. Discreetly located off these are two bedrooms (one with a stylish ceiling fan and en-suite facilities, the other with a private door onto the downstairs courtyard) and a guest bathroom with large walk-in shower. The beautifully tiled ground floor courtyard offers access to 2 substantial utility rooms. Upon reaching the top of the staircase, one enters the spacious and very light upstairs living room. Boasting a log fire for the winter months, this room benefits from a balcony with views of the Sierra and beautifully carved traditional wooden doors leading onto the large terracotta tiled terrace. Village roof tops give way to expansive Sierran views. The master bedroom benefits from separate his and her wardrobe area, stylish ceiling fan and en-suite bathroom with double sinks, separate shower and bath. Two further bedrooms currently being enjoyed as 'his and her' studies, and another shower/wc area lead off the central terrace. Ascend the stairs to the Moorish inspired summer kitchen area (sink, fridge and
